

I believe that limits on media ownership are in the public's best interests, and that further consolidation of media ownership should not be allowed. There is already too much concentration of media ownership, and diversity of opinion suffers when the control of the media is placed in too few hands.